

On-Site Physical Therapy PERSONALIZED TO YOUR WORKFORCE

As an industrial healthcare provider with years of experience on the job site, we're familiar with the unique physical demands—and risks—your employees face. That's why our on-site physical therapy programs aren't just more convenient—they're more effective. Our teams teach employees how to heal themselves—with exercises based on the ergonomics of their specific jobs.

Benefits of On-Site Physical Therapy

Our physical therapy programs focus on preventive care, flexibility training and personalized support through both telehealth and in-person guidance. Combined with our job-site clinics, we can cover the full spectrum of your industrial healthcare needs.

Personalized plan

We design and implement a program tailored to your specific needs—focused on preventing injuries, improving flexibility, and optimizing physical performance.

Immediate care

When an employee is injured on your job site, our nurses can assign appropriate elements of your PT program as part of their care plan.

On-site recovery

Employees are empowered to self-care allowing them to heal at work at their own pace with the support of our staff without lost time or costly off-site clinic visits

Vital resources

We'll provide posters, videos and other resources (in English and Spanish) to help remind employees of key exercises to prevent and heal job-related injuries.

More on-site services

From employee health screening and training to on-site injury triage and care, our licensed providers are available on-demand, 24/7.
